Synopsis:

Ana Martinez is a small-town girl with a love for science in all its forms. In addition to helping her grandfather keep his struggling pest control business afloat, she wrestles with being an unpopular, nerdy outcast. Her only friends are members of a quirky drama club and her high school science teacher. On top of all that, she is navigating the emotional minefield of her first teenage crush: her grandfather's part-time assistant Johnny.

But Ana's growing pains are nothing compared to the swelling horror of a strange spider breed that is taking over the small, sleepy town. When a local woman's mutilated corpse is found, the police search for a connection between her death and the Verminate Corporation, a powerful pest control conglomerate. What mysterious link does Ana's grandfather have to the conglomerate? How is it connected to the dark, Nazi inspired experiments of a cartel deep within the jungles of South America? Ana, along with the rest of the town residents, will discover these shocking truths during their annual "Day of the Dead" festival when it is overrun by the most terrifying dead of all: the brutal creatures known as Aranas Zombie.
